HOSPITALITY

ON this particular Saturday morning in October, the Kendall house was filled with the aroma of home-baked cakes and cookies. As the family wandered down for breakfast one by one, each sniffed and commented on the pleasant welcome. Davey, age 11, peeked into the oven and was about to grab a half-baked cookie when his mother caught him and chased him out.

Mr. Kendall and Judy, their 16-year-old junior miss, were more practical. They wanted to know what the occasion was for so much baking.

"Well," explained Mrs. Kendall, "the Goldens are moving in across the street this morning. Remember I told you I met Mrs. Golden the other day when the house was being painted. Anyway, I though it would be a nice gesture if I sent some cake over . . . as a sort of welcome."

"Mmm, very nice," murmured Mr. Kendall.

"Judy, I thought you would bring it over later. It should all be ready in about an hour," said Mrs. Kendall.

"Oh, mother, must I? Beth and I and some of the other kids are going bike-riding in about an hour."

"Now, Judy, it will only take a few minutes. I'm sure everyone will wait for you. Anyway, I thought you might like to meet the Goldens, especially their son, who is seventeen, tall, dark and handsome."

"Well . . ." Judy brightened up. "I guess it would be nice to be neighborly."

In her room, Judy carefully selected her outfit for the day's outing. The usual dungarees and man's shirt were tossed aside in favor of some blue pedal pushers and a white sweater trimmed in blue. She carefully brushed her bangs and decided against the pony tail. Instead she tied a blue ribbon around her head . . . most effective against the jet black curls, blue eyes and fair skin. It was still a bike-riding outfit, Judy rationalized to herself, but at the same time she decided she looked good enough to impress Mr. Golden, Jr.

Judy went downstairs, picked up the cake and cookies, and went across to the Goldens. Her heart was pounding with anticipation and her brain was working overtime selecting the right words as she rang the bell. The door was opened by a short, chubby, sandy-haired young man of about 14 years.

"I-I'm Judy Kendall," she stammered confusedly. "Uh, I . . . I live across the street. Is your mother home?"

"Oh, hi," the boy with the sandy hair answered. "I'm Jimmy Golden. Mo-o-ther," he called. "We have a visitor . . . Judy Kendall from across the street."

Mrs. Golden came down from upstairs. "Hello, Judy. I'm Mrs. Golden, and I see you've met my son, Jimmy."

"Y-yes," said Judy. "I have some cookies and cake for you. Mother thought you might like them over the week end."

"How nice. I'll drop over to thank your mother this afternoon."

"Fine, Mrs. Golden. She and Dad will be home. It was nice meeting you," said Judy turning toward the door, wanting to escape.

"Won't you stay for a few minutes?" asked Mrs. Golden.

"I can't. I'm meeting some friends."

"All right, Judy. It was nice meeting you. I'm sure we'll be seeing lots of each other."

"Yes. Good-bye, Mrs. Golden. Good-bye, Jimmy," Judy said to the chubby, sandy-haired boy of fourteen.

Back at her own house, Judy stormed into the kitchen.

"Mother, you need glasses."

"And just what do you mean by that, young lady?" asked Mr. Kendall.

"Did you give the cake to Mrs. Golden? What did she say?" asked her mother.

"I gave the cake to Mrs. Golden who said, 'thank you,' and I met her son . . . short, fat, blonde and 14. Sometimes I wonder, mother."

"Oh," her mother said understandingly. "There must be two sons, then."

"Yes, mother," Judy said with an air of patience. "Or maybe the END

it was just a delivery boy you saw . . . or a mirage."

"That's enough, Judy," her father said. "You'd better go bike-riding before there's a family fight."

Later that afternoon, Mrs. Golden did come over to thank Mrs. Kendall, and she invited the Kendalls . . . including Davey and Judy . . . for coffee and cake Sunday evening. When Judy was informed of the appointment, she had her own ideas on the subject.

"And while the four of you have coffee and cake, I suppose the three little children are supposed to get acquainted. Well, you can count me out."

"Now, Judy," her mother said patiently. "It's only for a few hours. It was nice of the Goldens to invite us when they've only just moved in, and we must be hospitable. And that includes you."

"Oh, mother, it's not that important. Tell them I have some homework or something."

"I guess if I force you, you'll only sit there like a bore," Mrs. Kendall said with a sigh of resignation. "Let's compromise. You come over with us for a few minutes to be polite, and then we'll say you have some homework or an exam to study for. How's that?"

"All right. That's fair enough. But just for a very few minutes."

Sunday evening after dinner, the Kendalls went across the street, Judy with them. She gave her mother that see-I-told-you-so glare as Mrs. Kendall was saying hello to Jimmy Golden. After a tour of the house, the group settled in the living room. That was Judy's cue.

"I hope you'll forgive me, Mrs. Golden," Judy said, being as charming and grown-up as she could be, "but I'm afraid I won't be able to stay."

"That's too bad, Judy. I was hoping . . ." Mrs. Golden was interrupted by Mrs. Kendall who thought she had better put in a word in her daughter's behalf.

"Judy left all her homework for the last minute, and she has a test tomorrow."

"Well, of course, a test is a test," Mr. Golden said amiably. "Some other time, Judy."

"Yes. Good night, all!" Judy smiled and made her exit.

"That's a nice girl you've got there . . . and pretty, too," said Mr. Golden after Judy left. "Just right for our son, eh, Ellen?" he said to his wife.

"Yes. I was hoping they would meet tonight. Dick is our older son," Mr. Golden explained to the Kendalls. "He was away for the week end, but he's due home very shortly."

The evening passed pleasantly. Just as Mrs. Golden was about to serve cake and coffee, Dick came home. He was as Mrs. Kendall had described . . . tall, dark and handsome . . . and definitely date-bait for Judy.

"Dick," said his mother, "I'm sorry you missed meeting Judy. She couldn't stay . . . an exam tomorrow."

"I'm sorry, too. But I'm sure I'll meet her soon."

Mrs. Kendall had an idea. "Dick, Judy's been studying for an hour, and she knows her work pretty well. Why don't you hop across to our house and bring her back for cake?"

Dick eagerly agreed and left to get Judy.

The doorbell rang at the Kendall house just as Judy put the last curler in her hair. She threw a kerchief around her head and a robe over her pajamas, and went to answer it.

"Who is it?"

"Dick Golden . . . from across the street."

Thinking it was Jimmy Golden, she opened the door to find a tall, dark and handsome stranger.

Dick Golden swallowed hard. "Uh, I'm Dick Golden. I just got home. We all thought you might be studying too hard and would like some cake. Come on over for a few minutes."

"Like this?" echoed Judy. "I'm not dressed. I . . . I . . ."

"Well, put something on and come over."

Dick left a confused Judy who realized that she had outsmarted herself. She ran up the stairs two at a time, pulled out a blue skirt and the same white and blue sweater and blue ribbon she had worn the day before. In ten minutes she was dressed.

Again her heart was pounding as she rang the Golden's bell. Dick answered. The surprised and interested expression in his eyes assured Judy that she'd have ample opportunity to put the good neighbor policy into effect.

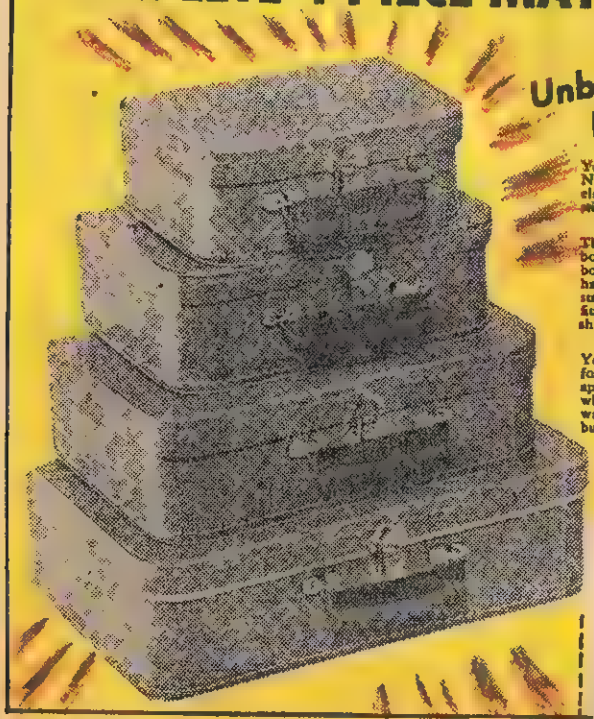
COMPLETE 4 PIECE MATCHED SET OF LUGGAGE



Unbelievably Priced at ONLY $2.98

Yes, that price is correct . . . Only $2.98 for the complete 4 piece set. Not $2.98 each, but $2.98 complete for all 4 pieces. And, there is nothing else to buy . . . no extras, no additions. Its modern appearance and wide-stitched simulated leatherette material will amaze you with its good looks.

IMPORTED AND MASS PRODUCED TO MAKE THIS PRICE POSSIBLE

This tremendous bargain is possible only through the use of pressed chip-board. This wonderfully versatile material bends around three sides and is bonded by sturdy wide stitching to the overlapping closing. Snap locks and handles are riveted to place. The big one has extra metal stripping for strength and long wear. Inside has laminated modern design print. Each piece fits inside the next larger which saves your storage space and makes our shipping easier.

NOT FANCY LUGGAGE — BUT USEFUL, PRACTICAL

You will be thrilled and delighted with the many, many uses you will find for this set. It will make a marvelous gift and your thoughtfulness will be appreciated for such a long time. Lightweight. It avoids the silly situation where the luggage weighs more than the clothing carried. When this offer was first made to us by the overseas company we couldn't believe our ears, but we were delighted when we saw it just a few days ago—and you will be too. Each piece serves a specific purpose such as vanity and cosmetic case (8"), personal Valet (10"), overnight case (12") or family size (14").

Remember, the complete price for all 4 matched pieces if luggage is only $2.98. Because of its size, we are forced to ask for an additional 63c shipping charge.

10 Day Free Trial

Simply fill in the coupon and when your 4 piece matching set of luggage arrives, pay the postman only $2.98 plus C.O.D. and shipping charges. Then, even use them for 10 full days. If you are not 100% delighted then simply return them for your full purchase price refund.
